Join Off the Mall Historic Tours for this woman-owned tour company in DC. The alleyways of DC served a distinct purpose as a city planning feature, but they also provided a hidden safe space where escaped enslaved people and the economically disadvantaged could find inexpensive housing and live their lives away from prying eyes. While city officials condemned life in the alleyways as dangerous, dirty and diseased, they were in fact a place where communities sustained each other and provided security. This walking tour takes you through the Blagden Alley/Naylor Court Historic District and reveals their secrets. Guests will have a half-way stop at the La Colombe Coffee for a bathroom break and optional refreshments and runs approximately 1.5 hours.	Lobby of Marriott Marquis DC

The National Museum of Women in the Arts (NMWA) is the first museum in the world solely dedicated to championing women through the arts. With its collections, exhibitions, programs and online content, the museum seeks to inspire dynamic exchanges about art and ideas. NMWA advocates for better representation of women artists and serves as a vital center for thought leadership, community engagement, and social change. The museum addresses the gender imbalance in the presentation of art by bringing to light important women artists of the past while promoting great women artists working today. Unfortunately, our personal guide had a death in the family but she'll be providing her notes and will be available to do a presentation at a later date via Zoom if you're interested.
